Fun Firewood Facts from Wittus

Burning the right firewood is one of the most important factors in operating your wood stove to its maximum potential. Your stove will last longer and stay cleaner if you follow the guidelines for healthy wood use. Wittus Wood Stocker with additional module shown at left.

4 Key firewood facts:

- It's best to use hardwood such as oak, ash and maple rather than softwood.
- Well-seasoned firewood takes 2 years to dry. Burning green wood creates creosote build-up and less efficiency. Well-seasoned wood is a home run!
- Best harvesting time: late Winter to early Spring.
- Seasoned firewood is based on color, shape, weight, hardness, bark dryness, sound when tapped on, smell, split test, flammability and moisture content (20% or less).
