One Man's "Wood" is Another Man's Pellet... Choose the Best Pellet Stove that Money Can Buy

What's "Smart", well designed, and easy to operate? The Italian pellet stove imported by Wittus and manufactured by MCZ, is the finest stove of its kind. Fashionable side cladding in chic color choices, unique operating features and advanced software made of the highest quality components, equates to a stove that stands out in a crowd.

The unmatched charm of these exceptional pellet stoves is credited to its clever and diverse design features and comes in five distinct models: the Ego, Star, Club, Suite (shown above), and Musa. A variety of cladding options are available including ceramic color tiles, steel color side panels, stainless steel, or soapstone sides.

Unmistakable characteristics highlight each stove. An innovative "active system" continuously adjusts the combustion air to compensate for variations in pellet size and density to minimize energy loss and maximize efficiency. Digital touch, programmable controls make this pellet stove one of the easiest to operate, while a unique "self cleaning" feature built into the cast iron burn pot provides low maintenance.

In addition, a Multi-Air option (utilizing the patented Comfort Air system) on the Musa, Club, and Suite models, ducts heat inside and through the walls to other rooms in the home for controlled comfort. Selecting the right pellet stove for your needs is important, and choosing Italy's top choice, the MCZ pellet stove from Wittus, is a sure step in the right direction to a "smart heating" concept.
